Taft Sails on Homeward Journey- Decided to Attend Lincoln Memorial Work is Progressing in Satisfactory Way.

Colon, Feb. 8.-President-elect William Howard Taft and party left on board the United States cruiser North Carolina for New Orleans, accompanied by the cruiser Montana. Just previous to embarking, Mr. Taft gave out the following:

"I am not prepared now to make a statement as to the result of the trip to the isthmus, except to say that we have found the work progressing in a most satisfactory way; the organization better than ever before, the esprit de corps excellent and the determination of all, even the humblest laborer, directed to the building of the canal. I am sure this has impressed itself upon everyone of the board of visiting engineers as it has

"With reference to the type of the canal and continuance of the present plans, the engineers promise they will be able to hand me their report by the time we land at New Orleans."

Governor Melendez and a large gathering of the Panama railroad and the isthmian canal commission employes were at the dock to bid the president-elect farewell. Lieutenant Colonel Goethals, chief engineer of the canal, accompanied Mr. Taft on the North Carolina. He will proceed to Washington to discuss the matter of appropriations necessary for the completion of the work.

As the tug which transferred the visitors to the cruiser moved away, the crowds cheered lustily. Mr. Taft, looking the picture of health, bowed and called out laughing: "Keep your eye on that subterranean lake at

During his visit here, which lasted ten days, Mr. Taft, accompanied on many occasions by the special engineers who came to the isthmus with him, wisited every section of the canal. His influence was also exerted in bringing about a better feeling between various factions that have been opposing each other since the last election.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WILL BE THERE

Dedication-All Plans Completed.

Louisville, Feb. 8.-Simple and yet splendid with the presence of the first citizens of the United States will be the homage which will be paid the old homestead of Abraham Lincoln, in Larue county, Ky., on the occasion of his centenary, February 12, the plans for the ceremonies of dedicating the marble memorial hall by President Theodore Roosevelt having finally been arranged.

The last preparations were made in this city by the committee in charge of Charles E. Miner, representing the Lincoln Farm association. It was determined that the five trains that will be run to Hodgenville from Louisville on February 12 should bear the various delegations, that a platoon of Louisville police should be permitted to do duty and that the representatives of the Republican and Democratic committees of Kentucky be given a place of prominence in the cere-

At this meeting two facts were learned also: One regretfully, that the venerable Cardinal Gibbons will not be able to come to pronounce the invocation, and the other joyfully that Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt will be members of the president's party. Up to the time of this latter announcement Kentucky women, of whom Lincoln's wife and mother came, had taken only a cursory interest in the arrangements. After the fact of the coming of the first lady of the land and the White House debutante had been published they began to show interest that proclaimed them like their sisters the world over to beseige their husbands to take them to the dedication.

The first train will leave this city at 7:31 o'clock on the morning of February 12, will carry all who desire to reach the farm early and to roam over the acres where the child Lincoln played. The second train at 7:45 will carry a band, sixty volunteer militiamen, eighteen cavalrymen and fifty newspapermen; the third, at federate veterans, who are to act as escorts to the president, the veterans of the Spanish American war and Governor Augustus E. Willson and his military staff; the fourth train at 8:35 will carry the Louisville business men who are behind the dedication plans and those of the public who can get into four extra coaches; while the fifth train at 9:35 will bear the president, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb and Secretary of War Luke E. Wright. During the last few weeks in which these plans have been crystalizing, the people of Washington county, Larue's neighbor, have been protesting against holding the exercises two miles from Hodgenville, on the farm where Lincoln was a child. They declare that the future president was born on Valley creek in Washington county where his parents were married and that Washington is being cheated of her motherhood. There is an old dispute between the counties.

The farm is two miles from Hodgenville along a road which is usually hard to traverse in winter but which has been veneered with gravel and cinders until it is now passable.

The program for the dedication includes addresses by President Roosevelt, ex-Governor Joseph Folk, of Missouri; Governor Augustus E. Willson, of Kentucky; General James Wison, for the G. A. R., and Luke E. Wright, for the Confederacy.

In Fairy Land

Where Children and Grown-Ups Should Roam

By RAYMOND BLATHWAYT.

IE great problem of to-day is, how best can one get hold of the child mind?

You can't do it by mathematics, or geography, or Latin verse. You want to appeal to it by far more subtle and delicate means than algebra and the twanging cane.

To humanize you must first sympathize. And fairyland affords a happy hunting-ground, a never-failing point d'appui wherein and whence one may first seek to compass the wonderful subtleties of the darling child-minds by which we are an engineering and tree culture probsurrounded on all sides, but of which, until it is too late, we lem.

frequently have so little understanding, and with which so many of us have such rare sympathy and correspondence. The truth of the matter is this: the child-mind is the kingdom of heaven, into which we cannot enter except as little children ourselves. A little girl shyly whispered in my ear the other day:

"Mr. Blathwayt, do you believe in fairies?"

"Mother," she delightedly and triumphantly screamed across a crowded luncheon-table, "Mr. Blathwayt does believe in fairies!" Many people will scarcely credit that a middle-aged man can sit soberly down at this time of day and write about children and fairies Lassen Forest, is the fact that the mercial trees which may get a start as I am doing gravely and sincerely, but I make no apology for so doing.

Rather do I make an earnest plea for the cultivation of the fairy mind in the modern child.

The child who is not robbed of her childhood—the most precious gift that God has given to every comer into this weary world-what a woman she will make in after-life—the child with the fairy mind, the woman of the fairy life. In fairyland, and in fairyland only, the child cultivates its most natural faculty, imagination; and what is life without imagination? "You can hear the stars shining and the day after to-morrow com- est of California. The scheme is to may at least bring relief to the State,

Woman Hide Thy Love

By HELEN OLDFIELD.

'It always is a mistake, sometimes a fatal one, for a woman too plainly to show her love for any man, however much he may profess his love for her. The gravity of the error, of course, is measured by the manner of man whom the woman loves; all men are not alike, and some few can stand the test of utter security in the possession of that tender thing-a woman's heart.

But such men are as scarce as blue diamonds, and no woman is wise who adores a man and, still worse, tells him so. The telling is the major part of the mistake. Hearts are willful things, and sometimes unbeknownst are lost, but at least the woman need not advertise the fact. There is much worldly wisdom in the saying that with impunity one may break all the "ten commandments" if one only obeys the precept: "Thou shalt not be found out."

Undeniably there are times when, if hypocrisy merely be the power to dissemble the concealment of her real feelings, the wisest women are they who can play the role of thoroughbred hypocrites. It is one of the axioms of polite society that while a woman may have the same desires as a man, she has not the same right to express them.

She may be much to be pitied for the excess of her affection, but her reisfortune is the less if she is strong enough to hide it; strong feelings of any kind frequently are the occasion of discomfort, both to those who possess them and to others, and violent emotion has a tendency to degenerate into hysterics, which sometimes are profitable to the hysterical one but always unpleasant to those who endure them.

But an occasional taste to show how good is the object withheld, stimplates the desire. "To give much, to give more, but not to give all," has een said to be woman's most precious secret for retaining a man's love indefinitely, if not forever.

names into the newspapers. I believe in the Bible from cover to cover, but I declare I don't know about the church and the ministers! You know I always read a great deal of history in preparing to write my novels. I read 124 volumes to get facts for the "Lion's Whelp," and 90 volumes before I started "The Black Shilling." And it seems to me that, as a body, the clergy have never once been identified with a single movement toward greater justice to the mass of people-until they knew the movement would succeed. Where the money is, where the power is vested, there I have always found the organized church, Protestant and Catholic.

It is the clergy's own fault if church-going is falling off. If unbelief rampant—and it certainly is in New York and the other large cities—it because the ministers, after building up a blind belief in themselves ather than in the simple common sense of righteousness, have been caught serving two masters.

1-Why do you continue bathing your knees and elbows one at a time, when you can stretch out in a full bath tempered to suit you, and can do so every morning if you wish?

2-Why pump and earry water for your kitchen and laundry work when you can have it at hand for the turning of a faucet?

3-Why take chances on drinking germ-filled cistern water when you can get it from a large reservoir filtered through the best filter plant South of the Ohio River?

4-Why have a dry, dismallooking yard when you can have it filled with green grass and blooming flowers, and can at the same time get rid of the dust in the street?

5-Why suffer other inconveniences when you can have everything for the comfort and health of your family right in the house?

6-Is it not true that the answer is not "lack of money," but lack of economy and enterprise and indifference to getting the most out of life?

BUSY WEEK FOR LEGISLATORS

Three Anti-Japanese Measures to Come Up for Action in California.

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 8.-Anti-Japanese legislation will be to the fore this week in both branches of legislature. Two resolutions drawn by Grove L. Johnson of Sacramento and aimed at the island emperor's subjects, will be the subject of discussion in the assembly on Wednesday, one already passed, segregating the Japanese in the public schools of the state, and the other, which was refused passage empowering municipalities to segregate in residential districts all undesirable aliens whose presence might in the opinion of boards of supervisors, be inimical to the public health and morals of the various communities affected.

Exclusion Bills Pending. Portland, Ore., Feb. 8.-The doings of the California legislature in regard to the Japanese, while followed with interest in this city, are discussed but little. TEMPERANCE FIGHT WILL OPEN TODAY

Indiana Legislators Are Lined Up For the Frzy.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 8.-Democratic leaders of the state legislature say the first action toward the attempted repeal of the county local option law will be taken in the house of representatives late this afternoon or tomorrow morning. Those who favor repeal will, it is said, take their stand on the bill introduced by Representative Tomlinson instead of the Kleckner bill agreed upon in caucus. The Tomlinson bill substitutes incorporated town and city ward local option for county option, while the Kleckner bill would provide for township and ward local option.

Senator Proctor, of Elkhart, who is author of the Tomlinson bill, says the measure will rid more territory of saloons than will the present law. PROMISE ARREST SOON

Chief of Dayton Police Says Nothing New in Fulhart Case.

Dayton, O., Feb. 8.-With the excertion of a microscopical examination of the stomach in search of possible traces of poison, the final autopsy on the body of Elizabeth Fulhart, of Vandalia, Ohio, Dayton's latest murder victim, failed to reveal the immediate cause of the girl's death.

There were no traces of choking or fractures of the skull: evidence of which were apparent in the other five tragedies in which girls were the victims.

The only tangible theory left, the police say, is that the girl may have been drugged, which accidentally proved fatal, and the body thrown into the abandoned cistern to cover up the traces of the crime and the crim-

Roy Cooley, who was a close friend of Miss Fulhart and who was detained by the police for examination, was released. Albert Wilkie, who was reputed to be the girl's flance, is soon to be released.

Chief allaback said, "There is absolutely nothing new. I believe, he ever, we will make at least one arrest early this week."

STORES A NECESSITY.

Lincoln Week to Be Well Observed Small Retailers Fixed Permanently as Factors in Social Life.

> There are pessimists who view with alarm the revolutionary forces at work in the husiness world. These people narrow views solemnly announce that within a few years there will be no place for the small retailers, that the so-called country merchant will be driven out of business, and will be supplanted by large concerns that will have the trade which is now divided among a dozen or more small stores. Some of them go so far in their doleful predictions as to predict that the business of the country will be transacted in the larger cities, and that the country town shall become a thing of the past. These woeful prophets fail to take into consideration the force of natural law in the social and the business world. They are illogical enough not to weigh the relationship of economy to trade conditions. Trade, like lightning or like water, follows the lines land, fifty years ago the hotbed of of least resistance. This poem written for the occasion at the store becomes the nucleus of a town, a city in embryo. As other settlers come in, the town grows more important, new industries are established, local government is organized, roads radiate from the place, banks and other financial institutions are estabhshed, and here we have a thriving town created.

This town exists because there is a necessity for its existence, and this necessity is the working out of economic laws. Wherever communities exist, tradesmen will exist. They are a necessary part of the social and business life. They are necessary agents in the distribution of commodities. They are the outgrowth of thousands of years of commercialism, and they cannot be supplanted by any other system. Large stores of the department kind may grow up. They are also a necessity and are revolutionary in character, but there will ever remain a place for the small store, it matters not how large the city or how small

FREE PREMIUM DEAL.

Get-Rich-Quick Concern Put Out of Business by Postal Department.

Verily, fishing is good for the catchers of gudgeons and the various other kinds of suckers. They are caught of every class and kind, and so numerous are they that the post office department of the government pays out thousands of dollars monthly to protect them. But whether it is worth while to keep the brainless persons from parting with their change is the question. Yet it is one of the benign features of our government machinery to protect children, women, fools and incompetents in general, and as far as possible punish those who make any department of government the means of defrauding them. Recently a fraud order was issued against a New York city mail order concern, claiming to be "dealers in any kind of merchandise." It had been doing an extensive business, and in the possession of the New York postmaster when the order went into effect were 5,000 letters, each of which was supposed to contain 88 cents to pay packing charges on a premium, a very valuable, beautiful silver fruit dish, gold lined, and guaranteed quadruple silver plate." These articles had cost the concern 30 cents each. The letters in the post office addressed to the company were in response to a circular which informed the "lucky" person that "you answered a premium offer some time ago, and we have just completed the list of the fortunate ones who may receive presents, and are now ready to ship them. Your name is on the list, and this notice is sent that you may claim the present." Then the gentle touch of 88 cents was made to 'cover expense of packing." This is only one of hundreds of similar concerns which cause the post office de partment great annoyance, and the unsuspecting heavy losses.

Co-Operative Scheme.

One of the latest grafts to gather in the farmers is the co-operative store game. The field for this work is prolific; the west has had prosperity that has filled the pockets of many farmers, and it has made them greedy for more, and easy victims for the man who has a scheme that promises a field for investment and the saving of more dollars. The co-operative store is a plan that takes, and everywhere of the committee organized by Queen | a success has been made of a co-operative elevator or similar enterprise that may be in the farmers' line the promoter of the co-operative store gets busy. If only a little stock is subscribed for, all the same, as it gives the promoter and his backers a better swing, and the jobbing houses that are behind the movement will have things their own way. The big rakeoff is in the supplying of goods at from ten to fifteen per each more than the legitimate dealer would be required to pay, and selling at a smaller percentage of profit. The salary of the manager and the clerks takes up the big share of the "profits," but as long as a showing of earnings can be made the scheme succeeds, and the regular stores find business dull. Dozens of stores of this class have failed with

Stewart then went to the nearby home of John Spanhouse, and fired upon Mrs. Spanhouse twice, wounding her in the eye and arm. Her husband rushed to her assistance and was shot dead. TO DRESS WELL ON LITTLE.

Decidedly Hard to Accomplish, But Can Be Done.

The girl who must dress on a small ncome gets much well meant advice as to accomplishing that difficult feat. Perhaps she is told that no matter how plain are one's clothes she must always be well shod and well gloved; or the changes are rung on the advantages of one good tailor suit a

This advice is good as far as it goes but nothing is said of the times when the money that should be put into shoes and gloves must be diverted to unexpected doctor bills or to help out n the rent

Then the shabbiness of gloves must e covered as best it may and shoes vill have to be patched for longer wear. To get new shoes at the same ime as new gloves is often an impossibility and one is frequently shabby before the money can be raised to buy the other.

A good tailor suit each year in thery is delightful, in practice it is frejuently beyond the average girl's income. Either she must buy a cheap suit which fades or shrinks in the first hard storm or if a good suit is bought one year it will have to serve as best for several seasons. To dress well on a limited income is far from being as easy as it sounds and the girl who can accomplish it neatness. She will have to weigh well her buy

Having made her purchases, she must make them last to their utmost time limit by constant care; and make up for deficiencies of cut and material by an erect carriage and a winning

OUR COUNTRY BOYS

CHANCES THAT THEY SOME-TIMES OVERLOOK.

BRAINS FOR THE BIG CITIES

Opportunities for the Rural-Born Youth to Gain Success by Making His Start in His Home Town.

There is no use in complaining because you perhaps were born on a farm and fortune destined that you must get your initial business experience in the four-corners' grocery store, or some other business establichment in the home town. The average country boy has a kind of hankering for city life, and for a chance to elimb to the front. Some, however, never stop to think that if they are built of the proper material they will drift there without realizing the change. Yes, the country town is the kindergarten of success, and if you don't make a winning there you might as well make up your mind to go back to the plow.

Business men, much like poets, are born, not made, and if one has not the talents requisite for success in mercantile life, he will have a hard road to success. Business principles are the same the world over, and the little country store affords the gaining of knowledge that is necessary to the winner. The most successful merchants in the world gained their start in the country store. The greatest statesmen found their ambitions while following the plow. Then the country boy should not be sorry that he is not in the big city. The one with brains and ability in these days will win out. The country is the fertile field for the growing of brains for city use. Therein is held in reserve the energy that goes to move the world of business. Study into the lives of the great men of to-day, and you will find three-fourths of the most successful ones the product of the farm and the country town. Then, if you are a country-store clerk, be thankful, and if you use honest endeavor in time you will find that instead of you seeking the city, the city will be seeking you. Merit always finds its re ward. What you learn, learn well. Be thorough in everything you do. Better be a good grocery clerk than a poor lawyer. Better be a good plow boy than a poor clerk. Brains backed up by industry and honesty of purpose are essential to success. Hours spent in study of whatever business you may enter are hours well spent. You can never learn too much, if you only learn rightly. Ambition is one of Bud turned quickly to Polly. "Did the things that assists in working wonders. Have an aim in life, and let that aim be your loftiest ideal. Once you decide upon a worthy accomplishment never rest until you succeed. The small country store or busicity store never affords. There are spare moments that can be profitably utilized. Make the best of them. and remember that a well-stored mind > of the wheels of the car of progress? If you are deaf to it just make up your mind to join the ranks of the nonprogressive and the failures. This is a strenuous age, and a time when to succeed in business requires work, intelligent work, and a lot of it. System is the watchword, and work, work steady and directed by brain, is what brings success. There are so many who are engaged in trade that are little equipped for it. These days, to succeed, it is necessary that every phase of the business you are in be understood. What rules to-day may undergo a change to-morrow. The man in business must be up-to-date or very likely he will soon be the loser. Keep posted on the markets, the conditions of trade in general, on the latest methods of doing business. If you do not-well, just put your name on the back-number list and drop out. The sooner the better for your own pocketbook and the welfare of your family.

Don't keep in the rear of the procession. There is plenty of room up front. Once in the rear, you may be inclined still to further lag behind and sight. So sang Lincoln's favorite poet, Shakespeare. Measured by this standard, our meek and patient American president was the most godlike ruler in history, for he showed most mercy.

War and force we have had long. The world does not need these. What she does need is love. The disinterested, divine compassion that would do good to all men, that would pardon the offender, that would take the chain from all hands and the tears from all eyes-it is this for which humanity

Love suffereth long and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not its own, is not provoked, thinketh no evil, rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, out rejoiceth with the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all

It seems to me if I had to throw away all pictures of Lincoln but one I would retain that of his being blessed by the tears of a humble mother whose son he had pardoned or of a humbler slave whose chains he had broken.

It was objected that his leniency interfered with discipline. Perhaps it did, but even that is open to question, Suppose we grant it, however? What love is a greater. treated his maligners. He looked at this misrepresentation like a philosopher. At one time there was a blunder in the southwest, which was charged to the president. An officer who knew that the blame belonged on other shoulders was one day visiting the White House and mentioned the matter. He asked if he had not better state the facts as he knew them to be.

"Oh, no," replied Lincoln, "at least not now. It I were to try to read, much less answer, all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know how, the very best I can, and I mean to keep on doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

Among the most virulent critics of the president was the Chicago Times. A visitor once appealed to Lincoln to suppress the paper on the ground that it was opposing the war and aiding the enemy.

"I fear you do not fully comprehend the danger of abridging the liberties of the people," replied Mr. Lincoln. "Nothing but the very sternest necessity can ever justify that. CASE OF THE POLITE PEONS.

And the Engineer Who Knew Little Spanish and Tried to Boss Them.

An engineer who came up a while ago from Mexico told a story about a man in his line who had a rather limited knowledge of Spanish but fancied that by combining what he knew and some English he could make the peons employed on the railway understand. In his vocabulary were these words: Para, stop; ustedes hombres, you men; piedras, stones, and via, road. One day this engineer was walking up the track and saw a lot of peons standing around doing nothing. So he stopped and

"Ustedes hombres, why are you standing around idle? Take those piedras and throw them in the middle of the via."

The always polite Mexicans smiled and said, "Si, senor," and the engineer marched away. Then they debated what he meant and decided he wanted the stones thrown on the other side of the track. They started to do that and back came the engineer.

"Pasa, ustedes hombres, para! Didn't ustedes hombres hear what I said? Didn't I tell ustedes hombres to take those piedras and throw them in the middle of the via? Why don't you do what I said?"

And he marched away, as the peons said suavely, "Si, senor."

They had another consultation and decided that what he wanted was to have the piedras thrown clear across the track in the other direction. So they began, again, tossing the stones back again. The engineer came rushing back, shouting:

"Para, para! What is the matter with ustedes hombres? Do ustedes thombres take me for a fool?"

He paused and, believing that , he had come to the end of his speech the peons bowed gravely and said: "Si,

The Missian of Jimmy. There were two methods of communication in Cove City, both of which were equally effective. One was the telephone, which from a single, isolated case had developed into an epidemic, and the other, which enjoyed the dignity of precedence and established custom, was to tell Jimmy Fallows. . . As a general retires to a hilltop to organize his forces and issue orders to his subordinates, so Jimmy hung upon his front fence and conducted the affairs of the town. He knew what time each farmer came in, where the "Helping Hands" were going to new, where the doctor was and where the services would be held next Sunday. He was coroner, wharfmaster, undertaker and notary, and the only thing in the heavens above or the earth below concerning which he did not attempt to give information was the arrival of the next steamboat. Dickens' Stories in China.

in Century.

The Chinese are rapidly taking up English and French novels are now in increasing demand. Our romantic and sentimental treatment of love affairs, however, is a thing so foreign to oriental othics that the hero of the ordinary Enropean novel appears to the Chinese mind as a person of perverted moral sense and doubtful sanity. Translations of Dickens, therefore, impress the Chinese reader less than they amuse him, and detective stories and tales of acventure command a more sympathetic audience.

To the celestial mind the love affairs of David Copperfield can only detract from the human interest of that hero; a Chinese novelist would have solved his difficulties by making him woo and marry Dora and Agnes simultaneously. So of course John Chinaman does not understand the pathos. Nevertheless, Dickens' works command a steady sale.-Woman's Life.

PEOPLE TO BLAME

HAVE THOUGHTLESSLY AIDED IN CENTRALIZING INDUSTRIES.

EVILS NOW CLEARLY SEEN

Unequitable Distribution of the Earnings of the People Inevitably Followed-Growth of Small Towns and Communities Retarded.

During the last few months of 1907 the people had a striking example of the effects of too much centralization. While all over the United States there was prosperity, a few embarrassed concerns in Wall street, New York, brought about a financial stringency that became generally felt. For years the agricultural sections have been sending money by the millions to the great financial centers. Here it was used for the building up of great trusts and combinations, which were greatly overcapitalized. On this watered capitalization the people have been compelled to pay ponderous divi-

One natural law is that of concentralization, segregation, and in these matters Nature carries on its work well, but unnatural concentration, like other infractions of natural laws, bring Arrive quick punishment. The centralization of industries which has been going on since the trust era started has brought about an unequitable distribution of the earnings of the people. It has retarded the growth of towns and communities. It has brought in its wake many evils that affect workers in every field. Yet for these evils the masses of people are to blame. Every man, woman and child who labors and who sends the products of that labor to other places than the home community assists just so much in centralization of business and financial power. Every resident of a rural community who sends his dollars to the large city helps along the trust builders and the centralizers. While the mail-order evil is one that is serious, it is only so as it is a means of centralization of business, and the consequent sapping from communities the wealth that should be retained in them.

The commercial enterprises are the life elements of the rural towns. When these enterprises are destroyed, the town deteriorates. With the disappearance of the town goes the home markets, the good schools and the churches and the other public conveniences that the town affords. With the going down of the town, real estate values are depreciated, and depression comes to all the community. How would the farmers fare if the larmer get as good returns as he does from the home dealers? How about other produce? It is the home markets that afford the growers of produce protection. When the calm thinker who is engaged in agriculture each, of $2. considers all these little matters, he will find that in home patronage lies nished to each member of our party the keystone of his success. How without extra charge. would the agricultural districts be as munity sent to some foreign place for all the goods required. whose inclination it is to oppose the tucky. progress of the place where he resides. By making better the home town, we are improving the community of which we are a so much help to the trust builders Building, Louisville, Kentucky. and the business centralizers. All these things are worthy of the most serious consideration of every citizen.

By request of vored the same with essential oils and then sold the powdered stuff for pure spices. He related about another concern which sold $100,000 worth of spices annually, only five per cent. of which were pure. The common articles used for adulteration of spices are sawdust, brick dust, burnt grains, cocoanut shells and other kinds of shells and barks. It is the aim of the United States government to put an end to this adulteration of foods. Since the government has become active in tracing down such frauds a number of unscrupulous grocery houses have been compelled to go out of business.

Reputation Worth Acquiring. Townspeople owe it to themselves to build up a reputation for hospitality. They should ever welcome the residents of the surrounding country to their town. But hospitality alone will not win. People have their eyes on the mighty dollar, and if in addition to hospitality the town secure a wide reputation as a good market place, where eggs and butter bring a few cents a pound more than in some other town, it will work wonders in drawing patronage to the place. -

Clean and well-paved streets indicate the good character of citizens living in a place.
